Mesa County Partners provides three key programs for the youth of Mesa County!

The One-to-One mentoring program provides positive adult role models to youth ages 7-17 who need emotional support and guidance in their lives.

The Restitution program provides educational and prevention classes to court-involved youth ages 10-21, instills work ethic, accountability, and responsibility for actions through completing court-ordered community service and to restitution paid to victims.

Western Colorado Conservation Corps (WCCC) provides training and employment opportunities for ages 17-28. The WCCC also works closely with many organizations, throughout Western Colorado to collaborate on land improvement to help maintain and protect our beautiful outdoors.
